
HISTORY

The story begins in the land of Ulster where a beautiful woman, Medb, is married to a powerful king, Conchobar. Medb is determined to seduce the other kings of Ulster, including her husband's brother, the mighty warrior Fionn mac Cumhaill. She uses her cunning and beauty to seduce Fionn, and they have a son, Oisín. Medb's actions lead to the legendary battle of the Boyne, where Fionn and his warriors defeat Medb's forces. The story of Medb and Fionn is a central part of Irish mythology and is often told in the form of a ballad or a play.
